

ABSTRACT

Method and systems for producing three-dimensional objects. One exemplary method, among others, includes: forming an identifiable structure within the three-dimensional object. The identifiable structure within the three-5 dimensional object can be detected using a non-invasive dimensional imaging device.